Expert Report of Bernard R. Siskin, Ph.D.

Access Living of Metropolitan Chicago, Inc. v. City of Chicago,
1:81-cv-03399 (E.D. Ill)

I. Background and Qualifications

My name is Dr. Bernard Siskin. I am currently the president of BLDS, LLC, a statistical consulting firm that specializes in the application of statistics in law, particularly in analyzing data for statistical evidence of discrimination. I have testified for both plaintiffs and defendants in more than 200 cases, many of which were large class actions. In addition to discrimination studies, I have conducted statistical studies and have testified in commercial and environmental cases involving statistical issues.

I received my B.S. degree in Mathematics from the University of Pittsburgh and a Ph.D. in Statistics from the University of Pennsylvania. For many years, I taught statistics at Temple University and served as Chairman of the Department of Statistics. I am also the author of many articles and textbooks on statistics and quantitative techniques, including Elementary Business Statistics, Encyclopedia of Management, and Quantitative Techniques for Business Decisions. I have written and lectured extensively on the use of statistics in litigation.

I have served as a statistical consultant to the U.S. Department of Justice, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the U.S. Department of Labor, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Central Intelligence Agency, the Environmental Protection Agency, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB), OFCCP, Fannie Mae (the Federal National Mortgage Association), and Freddie Mac (the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation), as well as numerous other federal, state and city agencies, and numerous Fortune Five Hundred corporations. I have also frequently been appointed by federal judges as a neutral expert to aid the court in statistical issues and I was the statistical consultant to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals Task Force on Equal Treatment in the Courts.

In addition to the qualifications mentioned above, I have attached as Exhibit 1 my curriculum vitae, which includes a list of publications I have contributed to and/or authored within the last ten years. Attached as Exhibit 2 is a list of all the cases for which I have testified as an expert within the past four years.

II. Assignment and Compensation

Plaintiff's counsel requested that I draw random samples of developments that another expert would then assess through either plan reviews, measurement reviews, or both, to determine if the development meets the required standards for architectural accessibility. Specifically, I was supplied with a list of 552 developments.¹ The developments were categorized into one of four categories, (1) federally funded new construction, (2) non-federally funded new construction, (3) federally funded rehabilitation, and (4) non-federally funded rehabilitation. I understand that the architectural accessibility of these developments can be subject to three laws, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), and the Fair Housing Act (FHA).

After the reviews were conducted, I was given the results of the other expert's assessments, which indicated whether the developments passed or failed the plan or measurement review "tests." In addition to the assessment results, I was provided with the applicable law associated

Based on this information, I was asked to compute the percentage of developments that failed the plan review or the measurement review. Since these results are based on random samples of the population of developments, I was also asked to estimate the percentage of developments in the entire population that are likely to fail these tests. Using the laws of probability, below I provide the percentage of developments that I have at least 97.5% confidence would fail were all developments to be tested. In statistics, this is referred to as the 97.5% confidence interval. All calculations were performed for the developments by category (i.e., federal/non-federal and new construction/rehabilitation) and by category-law (i.e., ADA, FHA, and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act).

I am being compensated at my normal hourly rate for all tasks and testimony of $815 per hour. I have also had staff assist me in preparing the results discussed below. No portion of these fees was or is dependent on the nature of my findings or the outcome of the case.

III. Documents and Information Reviewed and Relied On in Preparation For This Report

Plaintiff's counsel provided me with a spreadsheet that reflects the Portfolio, which consists of 552 developments that received some form of financial or other assistance from Defendant, the City of Chicago ("City"). Each development was identified as to whether the development received direct federal funding and whether the development was new construction or rehabilitation. The data contained 144 projects that were federally funded and new, 222 that were federally funded and rehabbed, 84 that were non-federally funded and new, and 105 that were non-federally funded and rehabbed.² I was asked to draw two scientific random samples from each category. The accuracy of the results of any sample depends primarily upon how large a sample is taken. When choosing a sample size, there is a trade-off between accuracy (the larger the sample, the more accurate it will be) and time and cost (evaluating a larger sample takes longer and is more expensive). The decision of how large a sample to take is that of the Plaintiff. To inform their decision, I supplied Plaintiff with the 97.5% confidence level resulting from possible failure rates associated with given sample sizes. I then provided Plaintiff with eight spreadsheets. Each of the four categories had two spreadsheets: one for plan reviews and one for site reviews. Each spreadsheet had its relevant properties sorted in random order. Plaintiffs then started from the top of the spreadsheet and chose properties to review in the order in which they appeared in the spreadsheet.³ Because the ordering of the properties in the spreadsheets is random, Plaintiff's selection is also random.

This is a standard statistical methodology that leads to a scientific random sampling of the developments and allows one to produce a valid and unbiased estimate of the failure rate in each category and to determine the accuracy of that estimate. The architectural accessibility expert hired by Plaintiff then conducted plan and measurement reviews of the selected developments and determined a "pass" or "fail" for each development reviewed.

Based on the results of the reviews, I calculated the best point estimates and the 97.5%

² Among the federally funded properties, one property included both new and rehabilitation construction. Among non-federally funded properties, two properties included both new and rehabilitation construction. Thus, the number of properties is 552, but the number of projects sums to 555.

³ It is my understanding that plans were not provided by the Defendant and could not be obtained from other sources for some properties and that Plaintiff skipped any such properties while sampling for plan reviews.

“confidence intervals,” as defined below. These calculations are based on the developments in each categorization, the number of developments sampled from each of those categorizations, and the sampling results.

IV. Methodology

In performing my work in this matter, I have used standard statistical techniques, and standards of care comparable to those used in professional and scholarly research. I have applied theories, models, concepts, reasoning, and assumptions that command general acceptance among my professional peers. Subject to the information made available to date, I hold the opinions I present in this report to a reasonable degree of scientific certainty.

Statistical sampling, such as the methodology performed here, is a standard practice in statistics that allows one to make inferences about populations of data where it is infeasible to measure the results for the entire population. Here, only the developments randomly selected were reviewed. It is assumed that the statistical measures of the sample that are drawn are representative of the entire population of developments at issue. The key for this to be accurate is that each development in the population has an equal chance to be selected.⁴

The methodology used here follows common and rigorous practice. Specifically, the value of the random number assigned to each development was entirely independent of the attributes of that development. For example, whether the development had many units or few units did not influence the value of the random number assigned.

After the Plaintiff's experts conducted the tests, the results were communicated to me via an analysis data file which, for each of the four categories of developments and the type of review being considered, listed the name and address of the property, the laws applicable to the development, whether the development was excluded and the results of the review.⁵ Exhibit 3.1 through 3.8 contains these analysis data files.

Since the sample is only a subset of the full population, there is some likelihood that the sample is not a perfect representation of the population. However, suppose there is a known probability (here, equal likelihood) of any member of the population being chosen in the sample. In that case, a statistician can provide a measure of the accuracy of the sample's prediction. Knowing the accuracy of the sample's prediction allows the user of the results to judge whether the results of the sample are accurate enough to rely upon. The measure of accuracy here is known as a "confidence interval." A confidence interval represents the range containing the true value of the variable being estimated if the whole population were studied with the stated confidence level. In the case of the analyses for this litigation, I first disclose my single best estimate of the number of failures in the population (the “point estimate”). This estimate is the percentage of the sample that fails. If 80% of the sample fails, then my best estimate of the percent of the population that will fail is 80%. If, on the other hand, 100% of every sampled observation failed accessibility review (which occurred in every sample discussed herein), then my point estimate, i.e., my best estimate of the percent of population failures, is 100%.

Using the hypothetical example above, the architectural accessibility expert found that 80% of the sample developments failed. Further, assume that there were 100 total developments in the population and the architectural accessibility expert studied a sample of 20 of them. In that case, our best estimate of the percent of the population that failed is 80%, but we are 95% sure that at least 59% would fail and at most 93% would fail.

For the results reported here, Plaintiff requested that I use a one-tail 97.5% confidence interval. Typically, one would use a 95% confidence interval in litigation (with 2.5% in the upper tail and 2.5% in the lower tail). However, since all developments sampled failed inspection, and there is no possibility that the population failure rate could exceed 100%, there was no point in evaluating an upper tail. Plaintiff then had to choose between using a standard 95% confidence interval with all 5% in the lower tail, and a more conservative 97.5% confidence interval with 2.5% in the lower tail. The latter is more conservative for the following reason: in a similar hypothetical example using a one-tailed 95% confidence interval where 100% of the sampled developments failed accessibility review, we would say that we have 95% confidence that the entire population’s failure rate is at least 87%. If, on the other hand, we were to use a one-tailed 97.5% confidence interval where 100% of the sampled developments failed accessibility review, it would suggest that the entire population’s failure rate is at least 84%. Thus, the 97.5% one-tail lower boundary will be lower than the 95% one-tail confidence interval. Plaintiff selected a more conservative confidence interval, which will produce a confidence interval with a smaller failure rate as a lower bound -- a result that is more favorable to the defendant.

The statistical methodology used here to calculate the probabilities is a hypergeometric distribution. This produces the exact probability and the exact confidence interval where the sample and population have the same characteristics. Specifically, the hypergeometric distribution requires a fixed population (i.e., the total number of elements in the population is known), which applies here because there are only a limited number of developments at issue. It also requires that the sample was chosen “without replacement,” which means that a given development could only be chosen once.⁶

I had my staff run exact hypergeometric calculations for each of the four categorizations (federally funded new construction, non-federally funded new construction, federally funded rehabilitation, and non-federally funded rehabilitation), for each of the three statutes at issue (Section 504, the ADA, and the FHA). These were run separately for developments that received plan reviews and those that received measurement reviews. The results of these analyses are attached as two exhibits. Exhibit 4 shows the best estimates (i.e., the “point estimates”) and the 97.5% confidence intervals based on the plan reviews that were completed. Exhibit 5 shows the best estimates and 97.5% confidence intervals based on the measurement reviews that were completed. I provide an extensive discussion of these results in Section V, below.

After calculating each categorization independently, I calculated combinations of several results for each of the three statutes at issue. First, I merged and showed results that combined all the federally funded developments (new construction and rehabilitation). Second, I combined the federally funded categorizations with the non-federally funded categorizations (both new construction and rehabilitation) to calculate a single fail rate for all the developments at issue.

⁶ The other option for sampling is known as “with replacement,” which means that a development could be chosen multiple times for the sample, effectively giving the results of a development chosen more than once more weight on the results than a development that is only chosen once. That is not appropriate for this situation.

When combining the results of the various categorizations, I treated each categorization as being statistically independent of all other categorizations (which they are). Computationally, I first calculated the probability of each possible outcome occurring within each categorization. I then merged all the categorizations, creating a list of all possible outcomes across all categorizations. Next, I calculated the probability of each of these outcomes occurring by multiplying the individual group's probabilities across all categorizations. Finally, I ordered those probabilities by the likelihood of those outcomes occurring and then identified the outcome at the 97.5th percentile.

V. Conclusions

A. Conclusions for All Projects in the Portfolio

1. All Projects Subject to Section 504

The total population of all projects (including new and rehabilitation construction and both federally funded and non-federally funded projects) subject to Section 504 is 542.

Of these 542 projects, 96 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (96 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 542 projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 92.4% (or 501 projects) would fail.

Of these 542 projects, 77 were sampled for plan review and 100% (77 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 542 projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 90.2% (or 489 projects) would fail.

2. All Projects Subject to the ADA

The total population of all projects (including new and rehabilitation construction and federally funded and non-federally funded projects) subject to the ADA is 471.

Of these 471 projects, 82 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (82 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 471 projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 91.3% (or 430 projects) would fail.

Of these 471 projects, 70 were sampled for plan review and 100% (70 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 471 projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 89.6% (or 422 projects) would fail.

3. All Projects Subject to FHA

The total population of all projects (including new construction for both federally funded and non-federally funded projects) subject to FHA is 224.

Of these 224 projects, 44 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (44 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 224 projects subject to FHA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 89.3% (or 200 projects) would fail.

Of these 224 projects, 41 were sampled for plan review and 100% (41 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 224 projects subject to FHA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 88.8% (or 199 projects) would fail.

B. Conclusions for All Federally Funded Projects in the Portfolio

1. All Federally Funded Projects Subject to Section 504

The total population of federally funded projects (including new and rehabilitation construction) subject to Section 504 is 359.

Of these 359 projects, 59 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (59 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 359 federally funded projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 91.6% (or 329 projects) would fail.

Of these 359 projects, 50 were sampled for plan review and 100% (50 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 359 federally funded projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 89.7% (or 322 projects) would fail.

2. All Federally Funded Projects Subject to the ADA

The total population of federally funded projects (including new and rehabilitation construction) subject to the ADA is 332.

Of these 332 projects, 56 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (56 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 332 federally funded projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 91.3% (or 303 projects) would fail.

Of these 332 projects, 47 were sampled for plan review and 100% (47 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 332 federally funded projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least

88.9% (or 295 projects) would fail.

3. All Federally Funded Projects Subject to FHA

Projects subject to FHA are only new construction – not any rehabbed sites. Therefore, the analysis for all federally funded projects subject to FHA is identical to the analysis for federally funded new construction projects in section V.C.9. For symmetry of reporting results, I reproduce the results both here and in section V.C.9. The total population of federally funded projects subject to FHA is 144.

Of these 144 projects, 30 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (30 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 144 federally funded projects subject to FHA were inspected, 100% would fail and I am 97.5% confident that at least 89.6% (or 129 projects) would fail.

Of these 144 projects, 27 were sampled for plan review and 100% (27 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 144 federally funded projects subject to FHA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 88.2% (or 127 projects) would fail.

C. Conclusions for Specific Categorizations in the Portfolio

1. Federally Funded New Construction Projects Subject to Section 504

The total population of federally funded new construction projects subject to Section 504 is 144.

Of these 144 projects, 30 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (30 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 144 federally funded new construction projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail, and I am at least 97.5% confident that 89.6% (or 129 projects) would fail.

Of these 144 projects, 27 were sampled for plan review and 100% (27 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 144 federally funded new construction projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 88.2% (or 127 projects) would fail.

2. Non-Federally Funded New Construction Projects Subject to Section 504

The total population of non-federally funded new construction projects subject to Section 504 is 84.

Of these 84 projects, 15 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (15 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 84 non-federally funded new construction projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail, and I am at least 97.5% confident that 79.8% (or 67 projects) would fail.

Of these 84 projects, 15 were sampled for plan review and 100% (15 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 84 non-federally funded new construction projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 79.8% (or 67 projects) would fail.

3. Federally Funded Rehabilitation Projects Subject to Section 504

The total population of federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to Section 504 is 215.

Of these 215 projects, 29 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (29 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 215 federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail, and I am at least 97.5% confident that 88.8% (or 191 projects) would fail.

Of these 215 projects, 23 were sampled for plan review, and 100% (23 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 215 federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail, and I am 97.5% confident that at least 85.6% (or 184 projects) would fail.

4. Non-Federally Funded Rehabilitation Projects Subject to Section 504

The total population of non-federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to Section 504 is 105.

Of these 99 projects, 22 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (22 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 99 non-federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail. I am at least 97.5% confident that 85.9% (or 85 projects) would fail.

Of these 99 projects, 12 were sampled for plan review, and 100% (12 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 99 non-federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to Section 504 were inspected, 100% would fail, and I am 97.5% confident that at least 74.7% (or 74 projects) would fail.

5. Federally Funded New Construction Projects Subject to the ADA

The total population of federally funded new construction projects subject to the ADA is 144.

Of these 144 projects, 30 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (30 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 144 federally funded new construction projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am at least 97.5% confident that 89.6% (or 129 projects) would fail.

Of these 144 projects, 27 were sampled for plan review and 100% (27 projects) failed.

Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 144 federally funded new construction projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 88.2% (or 127 projects) would fail.

6. Non-Federally Funded New Construction Projects Subject to the ADA

The total population of non-federally funded new construction projects subject to the ADA is 79.

Of these 79 projects, 13 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (13 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 79 non-federally funded new construction projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail, and I am 97.5% confident that at least 77.2% (or 61 projects) would fail.

Of these 79 projects, 13 were sampled for plan review and 100% (13 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 79 non-federally funded new construction projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail, and I am 97.5% confident that at least 77.2% (or 61 projects) would fail.

7. Federally Funded Rehabilitation Projects Subject to the ADA

The total population of federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to the ADA is 188.

Of these 188 projects, 26 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (26 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 188 federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 87.2% (or 164 projects) would fail.

Of these 188 projects, 20 were sampled for plan review and 100% (20 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 188 federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail. I am 97.5% confident that at least 83.5% (or 157 projects) would fail.

8. Non-Federally Funded Rehabilitation Projects Subject to the ADA

The total population of non-federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to the ADA is 60.

Of these 60 projects, 13 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (13 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 60 non-federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail and I am 97.5% confident that at least 76.7 % (or 46 projects) would fail.

Of these 60 projects, 10 were sampled for plan review and 100% (10 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 60 non-federally funded rehabilitation projects subject to the ADA were inspected, 100% would fail and I am 97.5% confident that at least 70.0% (or 42 projects) would fail.

9. Federally Funded New Construction Projects Subject to FHA

The total population of federally funded new construction projects subject to FHA is 144.

Of these 144 projects, 30 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (30 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 144 federally funded new construction projects subject to FHA were inspected, 100% would fail and I am 97.5% confident that at least 89.6% (or 129 projects) would fail.

Of these 144 projects, 27 were sampled for plan review and 100% (27 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 144 federally funded new construction projects subject to FHA were inspected, 100% would fail and I am 97.5% confident that at least 88.2% (or 127 projects) would fail.

10. Non-Federally Funded New Construction Projects Subject to FHA

The total population of non-federally funded new construction projects subject to FHA is 80.

Of these 80 projects, 14 were sampled for measurement review and 100% (14 projects) failed. Based on the measurement review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 80 non-federally funded new construction projects subject to FHA were inspected, 100% would fail and I am 97.5% confident that at least 78.8% (or 63 projects) would fail.

Of these 80 projects, 14 were sampled for plan review and 100% (14 projects) failed. Based on the plan review conducted, my best statistical estimate is that if all 80 non-federally funded new construction projects subject to FHA were inspected, 100% would fail and I am 97.5% confident that at least 78.8% (or 63 projects) would fail.

D. Summary Conclusions/Implications

In summary, the samples chosen from the various lists were valid random samples and all projects whose plans or measurements were reviewed failed those accessibility reviews. Based on the measurement reviews completed, I am 97.5% percent confident that if all the projects were subjected to a measurement review, at least 92.4% would fail of those projects covered by Section 504, at least 91.3% would fail of those projects covered by the ADA; and at least 89.3% would fail of those projects covered by the FHA. In addition, my best estimate is that all projects would fail if subjected to a measurement review.

Similarly, based on the plan reviews completed, I am 97.5% percent confident that if all the projects were subject to a plan review, at least 90.2% would fail of those projects covered by Section 504, at least 89.6% would fail of those projects covered by the ADA, and at least 88.8% would fail of those projects covered by the FHA. In addition, my best estimate is that all projects would fail if subjected to plan review.

SUMMARY

Bernard Siskin received his B.S. degree in Mathematics from the University of Pittsburgh and a Ph.D. in Statistics from the University of Pennsylvania. For many years, he taught statistics at Temple University and served as Chairman of the Department of Statistics.

Dr. Siskin has specialized in the application of statistics in law, particularly in the area of analyzing data for statistical evidence of discrimination. He has testified for both plaintiffs and defendants in more than 200 cases, many of which were large employment class actions. In addition to discrimination studies, he has conducted statistical studies and has testified in commercial and environmental cases involving statistical issues.

Dr. Siskin has frequently been appointed by federal judges as a neutral expert to aid the court in statistical issues and he was the statistical consultant to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals Task Force on Equal Treatment in the Courts. I was also appointed by the Court as an Expert to measure the accuracy of the CCC vehicle valuation methodology and I suggested possible modifications to the methodology.

Dr. Siskin is the author of many articles and textbooks on statistics and quantitative techniques including Elementary Business Statistics, Encyclopedia of Management and Quantitative Techniques for Business Decisions. He has also written and lectured extensively on the use of statistics in litigation.

He has served as a statistical consultant to the U.S. Department of Justice, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the U.S. Department of Labor, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Central Intelligence Agency, the Environmental Protection Agency, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB), OFCCP and Fannie Mae (the Federal National Mortgage Association) and Freddie Mac (the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation), as well as numerous other federal, state and city agencies and Fortune Five Hundred corporations.
